European Politics, Law & International Relations

Human rights, democracy and the rule of law are at the core values of the European Union. No other region has displayed similar willingness to give up important parts of national sovereignty in pursuit of peace and stability, economic and social justice. Yet in the wake of the European debt crisis and the rise of Euro-scepticism, the future of the EU is far from certain. International relations and human rights issues are fundamental to current challenges facing the Union. In a world of converging cultures and different political and legal systems, European Politics, Law & International Relations students explore how policy-makers negotiate between member states with a wide range of different nationalities, languages and agendas.

The Netherlands holds an unparalleled position in the international legal universe and is at the forefront of civil liberties and human rights. Picture-perfect Maastricht is uniquely suited to study European Politics, Law & International Relations, with its famous treaty establishing the European Union in 1992. The city is a stone's throw away from the International Criminal Court in The Hague, the 'legal capital of the world', as well as institutions such as the European Parliament in Brussels, the European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg and the European Court of Justice in Luxembourg. Examine national agendas, opposition to political union and the roles of international actors such as NATO and the UN. The European Politics, Law & International Relations programme offers students a greater understanding of the contemporary European political and legal issues.

Classes with a distinct European focus

Students in the European Politics, Law & International Relations programme are directly enrolled at Maastricht University and able to take classes at the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences – awarded the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence for outstanding education and research on European integration – and the internationally renowned European Law School, as well as the Center for European Studies (CES). Courses can also be taken at the highly selective liberal arts and sciences programme from University College Maastricht.

Courses

Students can choose from more than 350 bachelor-level courses in English offered at Maastricht University. At least half the courses should be selected from the programme-related Majors below. This combination provides a solid understanding of the central subject while giving students the freedom to build their own curriculum. Please refer to the CES website for a complete course overview.

All European Politics, Law & International Relations students select a Core Course, an interactive course that combines strong academics with integrated field trips and unique hands-on experiences. True to Maastricht University's philosophy of active and self-directed learning, students can undertake an independent study project during the Core Course and are encouraged to pursue their own academic interests.

Integrated Study Trips

The European Politics, Law & International Relations programme begins with the four day European Study Trip to Berlin, which provides a vivid European context for the central programme theme. The programme also offers a 'Get to the know the Netherlands' cultural weekend, as well as a two day Euregional Study Trip that includes for example, attending the European Parliament in session or information briefings at the European Commission in Brussels. Visits to the European Court of Justice in Luxembourg or the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia in The Hague offer unique insight into European legal cases and human rights.

"Attending a genocide trial at the ICTY, my human rights and international law courses really came to life as I witnessed what the concepts we had discussed actually meant in a practical setting."

Academics

Credits

Maastricht University uses the ECTS (European Credit Transfer System) to measure academic progress. Maastricht University courses are typically worth between 5-12 ECTS. How ECTS transfer depends on a student's home university or college. Generally a 5-6.5 ECTS course is the equivalent of a full semester course (3 American credit hours). CES advisors help students select classes to meet the requirements of their home university.

Programme Structure

Each CES semester is 18 weeks long and starts with an extensive 2-week introduction, followed by two 'block periods' of classes (block periods 1 and 2 in Fall; block periods 4 and 5 in Spring). Students take two or three courses per 8-week block period depending on the number of credits required. Students can earn a minimum of 24 and maximum of 32 ECTS per semester. The number of hours in class varies from 12-15 hours per week; for every hour in class students are expected to spend 2-3 hours on study.

High Academic Standard

CES programmes are designed for enthusiastic and intellectually curious students dedicated to expanding their academic horizons while abroad. To ensure that students do well, CES offers extensive academic advising, workshops and regular monitoring. Maastricht University uses Problem-Based Learning (PBL), a student-centered teaching approach. Small groups of students (12-15) work on academic or practical cases prepared by their professors. Faculty act as guides to students who are in charge of their own learning and are expected to be committed, active and self-motivated.
